

THE REPUBLICAN IS NEW COMMISSION ENLARGED TODAY FOR HIGH SCHOOL

Seven Columns Per Page Instead of Six Will Be the Size Hereafter.

DUPLIX PRESS IS INSTALLED

Prints Both Sides and Folds Papers at Rate of 4000 Complete Copies Per Hour.

This issue marks a new era in the history of the Seymour Republican and of the newspaper business in Seymour. The Republican is enlarged to seven columns instead of six columns to the page. This means an increase in the amount of reading space available for our subscribers.

Arrangements for this enlargement were made early last fall with the expectation that the larger paper would be published by the middle of November. Delays in shipping arose so that it was impossible to get started before the holiday season. After New Year's paper supply difficulties arose until it has been almost impossible to secure paper as needed. We had on hand a good supply of sheets the size used for the six column paper. It seemed best to continue that size until the supply of paper was exhausted.

The change in size of the Republican means new press equipment. A Duplex press was installed recently. This press does not print from sheets one side at a time, as the old press did. Instead the printing is done from large rolls of paper. One time through the press prints both sides and folds the complete paper ready for the carrier boy or mail. This is done at the speed of 4,000 complete copies of the Republican per hour. Instead of requiring an hour and a half to print and fold the edition as has been required heretofore the entire edition will be ready in thirty to forty minutes after the press starts. This quicker service will be appreciated, we are sure, by the large list of subscribers to the Republican.

It has always been a source of pleasure with the Republican to keep as far in the lead of requirements as possible, and the present equipment will enable us to care for double the present circulation with greater ease and much more promptly than under the old plan which had reached the limit of its capacity.

The special features of the Republican will be continued and new ones added as seems advisable. Every effort is made to get all the local and county news every day while it is news. A staff of editors and reporters eagerly scan the city for daily occurrences. A corps of correspondents at various places in the county send reports from their neighborhoods each week. Court house news, real estate transfers, commissioner proceedings, marriage licenses, deaths, personal and social items and a score of other news features are published regularly.

The national and international news fields are covered by the United Press Association news service. This service reaches our office every morning and afternoon by special leased wire. The Indianapolis and Chicago markets are received every afternoon over this leased wire.

Other features of interest include the Women's Page each week, a Farmers section, an installment of a good serial story every day, church items and announcements every Saturday.

Six-Year Department Given Formal Recognition by State Board of Education.

ALL REQUIREMENTS ARE MET

Legislation Relative to Joint High Schools Was Enacted by General Assembly in 1919.

With the issuance of a commission for a six-year high school by the state board of education Wednesday, the public school system in Seymour took another forward step in its program of progressive development. Only a few cities in Indiana have been granted commissions of this kind, although a large number of others expect to qualify within the next few years. A dispatch that such a commission had been granted Seymour was carried in The Republican Wednesday.

T. A. Mott, superintendent of the city schools, stated that the commission was issued following several inspections by the state high school inspector last year. Mr. Mott organized the six year high school here about five years ago and the plan has been found to be highly successful. One of the principal advantages of the plan is that the distinct dividing line between the grades and the high school proper is eliminated and many students who might leave school upon completion of the eighth grade remain in the high school because they are become interested in the work and desire to complete the course. Under the old plan the grade and high school work was conducted on an entirely different basis and some students seemed to lose interest when they completed the grade work.

The legislature of 1919 took recognition of the six year high school plan and under a law enacted in that year commissions to joint schools were made legal. Before a school is entitled to such a commission it must meet certain requirements laid down by the state board of education. All teachers in the joint school must have high school licenses and the buildings must meet certain requirements. The course of study must also be approved.

The six-year high school plan was originated at Gary several years ago and has been adopted by other schools since that time. Seymour was one of the first to establish the system after it was found to be successful. Mr. Mott and the members of the faculty are highly pleased with the results that have been obtained and it is thought that the formal recognition evidenced by the state commission will be valuable.

LOCAL GRAVEL TESTED FOR HIGHWAY CONTRACTS

Fred Kellam of State Highway Commission, Inspects Gravel Bed at Tanglewood.

Fred Kellam, of the state highway commission, came here from Indianapolis today to inspect a gravel bed at Tanglewood, near Rockford, with the view of determining if the gravel there can be used in the construction of state highways. The gravel bed is owned by J. J. Peter who took Mr. Kellam to Tanglewood.

The contracts for most of the state highways call for the use of Ohio River gravel which has been shipped here. Recently, however, an embargo was placed on the shipment of gravel because of freight congestion and the contractors have been unable to complete the roads. If local gravel can be substituted for Ohio River gravel it can be hauled to the contractors and the work pushed rapidly.

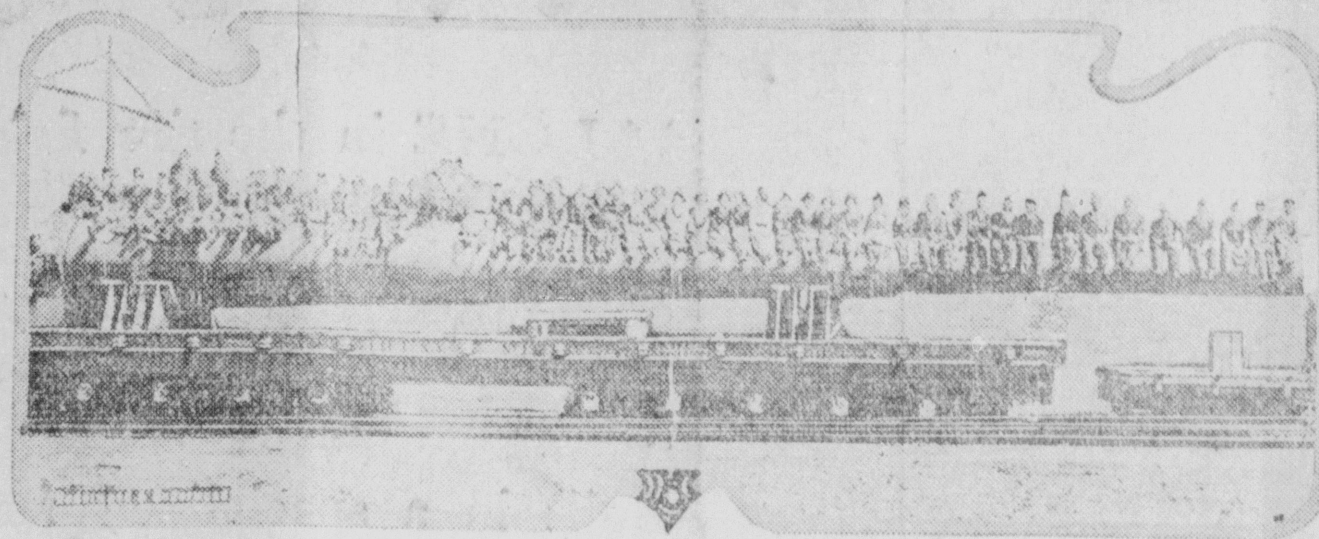

The Tanglewood gravel bed is said to contain the coarsest gravel to be found on White River. While some gravel has been removed from the bed it is very extensive and no trouble would be experienced in furnishing enough to complete all the road contracts in this immediate vicinity.

ELECTRIC ENGINE WILL BE OPERATED

Newest Type of Locomotive for Interurban Service Purchased by Interstate Company.

TO BE USED ON LOCAL LINES

Passenger Service Between Louisville and Michigan Summer Resorts Contemplated.

The newest type of electric locomotive for use between Louisville and Indianapolis has been received by the Interstate Public Service Company. The electric engine was shipped to Jeffersonville and is being assembled there. It is understood that it will be placed in operation within a short time. This is the first engine of this type to be purchased for use on any interurban line south of Indianapolis.

The advantage of the locomotive over the traction car, it is said, is that more than one car can be pulled and it is the expectation of the company to operate traction trains when the service is heavy enough to require additional cars. The passenger traffic has increased considerably during the last few years and frequently it is necessary to place "trailers" after the regular limited cars. It is also possible to make better speed with an electric locomotive than with the motor type which is in use now.

The electric engine was purchased at a cost of $24,000. It is understood that the first locomotive will be given a thorough test and if it proves satisfactory others will be bought later until all trains are operated by locomotives.

The Interstate Company has also ordered eight new steel passenger cars for use on the Indianapolis-Louisville line. These will replace the older cars and will relieve congestion which frequently develops. The order for the new cars was placed last September but the delivery date has not been fixed because of the shortage of raw materials and the labor situation in the car plants. However, the company expects to have them in use before the close of the summer.

Bert Wheeden, general freight and passenger agent, has announced that the Interstate Company has under consideration the establishment of through traction service between Louisville and Michigan summer resorts. Traction lines are built to many of the principal resorts in Michigan and through service may be operated by agreement among the traction companies.

BOARD APPROVES NEW CHURCH PLAN

Official Members of Trinity Methodist Congregation Confirms Recent Recommendations.

BUILDING SITE SELECTED

Next Step Will be to Inspect Modern Structures and Determine Details of Building.

Announcement was made today that the official board of the Trinity Methodist church had approved the recommendations of the representatives of the congregation that a modern church home be erected. A meeting of representatives of the church was held June 4 when the building project was presented by the Rev. B. E. E. Fischbach, pastor, and recommendations for a new building were transmitted to the official members.

It has been decided that the new church will be erected on lots which form a complete block on South Chestnut street, bounded on the east by Carter street, on the north by Brown street. These lots were recently purchased with the view that the congregation might at some future date decide to build its church home there. The site is advantageous as it is centrally located, within easy reach of the business district, yet just far enough away to be free of the noise of heavy traffic.

The first step to be taken in the building project will be to decide upon the detailed plans and specifications. Representatives of the congregation will inspect a number of new church buildings in the middle west with the view of selecting the

IRISH SITUATION IS NOT IMPROVED

Shops in Londonderry are Boarded Up and Citizens Remain in Their Homes.

FOOD SUPPLIES ARE LOW

Soldiers Using Tanks and Motor Lorries—Unable to Control the Mobs.

By United Press.

Dublin, June 24—Comparative quiet prevailed at Londonderry today following a night of terror in which bullets from rifles and revolvers raked the streets. All shops of the city were boarded up, and citizens remained in their homes.

Outbreaks of rioting in outlying districts continued, but troops were in control in the main streets. Authoritative estimates of the number of dead in the rioting which has been almost continuous since Friday night could not be obtained.

The food situation was desperate owing to inability of citizens to reach the shops. Actual war conditions existed in the city, barricades or sandbags having been erected. Motor lorries and tanks were stationed at street corners. Squads of troops patrolled the main streets. When soldiers rushed to one point where fighting started rioting broke out in another section. Rumors were current that Sinn Feiners were massing in the northwest to join the Londonderry fighting. Hundreds of heavily armed unionists in the north were reported preparing to come to the city.

A British cruiser has arrived and sailors took up posts along the water front where some fighting has occurred. A troop of cavalry was reported enroute to Londonderry.

Cardinal Logue, referring to conditions in the country announced he had received warning to prepare for death. He said that if he were shot it would be because he was Catholic prime in Ireland, and not because he had mingled in the country's politics.

Citizens placed their hopes of restoration of peace in the city on the promised arrival of Brigadier General Carter Campbell backed by sufficient troops to maintain order.

Irish railroad men persisted in their refusal to move munitions and arms or troops.

MUCH ACTIVITY ON PRESIDENTIAL ROW

Methods Revealed by Which Candidates' Organization Hope to Carry Convention.

PALMER WILL MAKE PLUNGE

Attorney-General Hopes to Poll Big Vote on First Ballot and Continue the Lead.

By United Press.

San Francisco, June 24—The anti-convention campaign had progressed today to the stage where for the first time, methods by which the candidates' organizations hope to win the Democratic presidential nomination for their respective chiefs could be determined. It is possible to classify the principal candidacies as follows:

Attorney General Mitchell Palmer: Will employ the same "foot ball" tactics that Major General Wood attempted at Chicago. Expects to poll as high as 500 votes on the first ballot and smash straight through to a victory without making concessions to any rivals.

Governor James Cox: Counts on the solid support of the middle west and several important states in the west and east. Does not concede Palmer first place on the initial ballot. Regards alleged ability to carry Ohio over the Republican nominee Senator Harding as one of his principal assets.

Governor Edward I. Edwards: Will make entire fight on personal liberty and states rights platform. His managers frankly state he will

San Francisco, June 24—The permanent chairmanship of the Democratic national convention is still undecided and will probably remain so until the committee on permanent organization acts according to the statement made by Homer Cummings chairman of the national committee today.

Cummings denied that he had been requested by the White House to take this job himself, although he admitted that such a solution of the problem had been suggested in other quarters. Personally he said he would prefer not to be chairman.

HOLDS SPECIAL SESSION OF ASSEMBLY IS LEGAL

Tennessee May Be Thirty-sixth State To Ratify Woman's Suffrage Amendment.

By United Press.

Washington, June 24—Acting Attorney General Frierson has informed Governor Roberts, of Tennessee, that he can legally call a special session of the legislature to act on the federal women's suffrage amendment, it was stated at the White House today. Frierson's ruling was sent to the Tennessee governor at the request of President Wilson.

Frierson's ruling following a request of President Wilson to Governor Roberts urging him to call a special session of the legislature so that Tennessee, a democratic state, would be the thirty-sixth state to ratify the amendment and thus allow women to vote in the fall election. Suffrage leaders today saw in Frierson's ruling coupled with Roberts' announcement that he would act favorably on Wilson's suggestion, the end of women's sev-

WILSON GIVES HIS PLATFORM IDEAS

President Does Not Believe Reference to Prohibition Question is Necessary.

WOULD SHUN IRISH ISSUE

Affirmative Declaration for Immediate Ratification of Covenant Would Suffice.

By United Press.

San Francisco, June 24—President Wilson considers it unnecessary for the Democratic platform to contain any reference to the prohibition question or to independence for Ireland, he informed those who will speak for him at the Democratic convention here, it was learned today.

As to the league of Nations, the president will be satisfied with nothing less than a strong affirmative declaration for immediate ratification of the covenant without crippling reservations.

Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, who is slated to head the resolutions committee that will write the Democratic platform today declared that he did not bear a draft of a platform written at the White House but added that he knew the president's mind about what he would like to see the Democrats do. Glass declined to reveal any inkling of what the president told him in a conference at the White House just before Glass went to his train. He said, however, that the president had not changed his attitude on the league in the slightest degree. In the draft of platform I have brought with me," said Glass, "is the Virginia platform which the president formally approved in a letter to me."

The Virginia platform is silent upon both the prohibition and Irish question which with the league form the chief sources of trouble for the platform builders.

Glass expressing his personal view on the prohibition question said that it is settled, hence need not be referred to. As to Irish independence, he said, Virginia Democrats had "enough troubles of their own to attend to."

"Will Bryan in your opinion be able to cause trouble over the platform?" Glass was asked.

"Mr. Bryan has the reputation for successfully kicking up trouble, hasn't he?" was the reply.

"Absurd," said Glass, when asked to comment on a statement published here that President Wilson would demand that the Democrats nominate him as a vindication of his policies and administration and would then decline the nomination.

"The president is not in the business of demanding nominations. I do not mean to say that it is absurd that the party should nominate him

WILSON'S SUPPORTERS MAY DOMINATE THE PLATFORM

Senator Glass, Virginia, Arrives at San Francisco And Confers With Leaders

By United Press.

San Francisco, June 24—The early arrival of Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, has appreciably strengthened the determination of President Wilson's supporters to construct for the Democratic national convention a thoroughly Wilsonian platform.

Senator Glass was busy today conferring with leaders on various platform questions. He gives the impression that the president is far more concerned with the platform than candidates. His characterization of the report that the president would demand a complimentary nomination for a third term as "absurd" effectively disposes of this matter following the declaration of Homer S. Cummings chairman of the national committee to the same effect.

Glass' intimation of view of the silence of the Virginia platform on the liquor question that the president favors the omission of any plank on this subject in the national platform has served to stimulate the activities of the wets who are more than ever determined to carry their fight to the convention floor if necessary. Should the resolutions committee report without at least a near wet plank there is certain to be a minority report. Few delegates on the ground share the optimistic prediction of Cummings of no platform fight in the convention itself, expect-

A CHANGED ATTITUDE

Four months ago Emma Goldman was deported to soviet Russia because of her utterances and activities against the welfare of the United States. During her residence in this country Miss Goldman did nothing to benefit her country. Her addresses were designed to create unrest and discontent. She was found guilty of trying to destroy the government which afforded her protection. Apparently the Stars and Stripes meant nothing to her.

After a short sojourn in Russia where anarchy, socialism and disorder replace organized government for the protection of the individual this woman discovers that America after all is the best country in the world. She has announced that she is "sick of it all," and referring to free America she says she "loves it as she loves no other land."

It is regrettable that Miss Goldman could not have fully appreciated America before her visit under compulsion to Russia. She was the recognized leader of a certain element of people in this country and for years she had endeavored to direct them in an un-American course. The shame is now hers that she did not preach appreciation of liberty giving institutions in this country. Her punishment is severe.

The experience of Miss Goldman ought to be worth a great deal to others who have endeavored to destroy America and its principles of freedom. Russia is open to any others who are not satisfied with the privileges and advantages offered in this country. But the boats to soviet Russia are not filled with voluntary passengers. Bolshevism is little better than anarchy and the freedom of the individual which was given in Russia under the dictatorship of Lenin and Trotsky has become anarchy. Any nation that is to prosper and protect its people must have an organized government. Our con-

POPULATION LOSS.

The census department in Washington has announced that the population of Jackson county is 24,228, a decrease of 499 since 1910. The decrease in the rural population of this county is not an exception to the rule. Other agricultural counties in Indiana and other states whose populations have been announced have suffered losses during the same period. Some of the decreases are even greater than that in this county.

The decrease in rural populations is accounted for by the rapid growth of industrial centers at the expense of the agricultural communities. The movement towards large cities has been very pronounced during the last few years. This is due to the inducement of shorter hours and higher wages than are possible on the farm. Young people who were reared on the farm and who have had several years experience in working from dawn to nightfall feel that the schedule of actual labor in factories is almost a perpetual vacation. There are other conditions besides hours and scale of wages to be considered but these are often overlooked until after the change is made.

The loss for rural populations presents a problem that must be reckoned with. It is on the farms of the nation that the food supplies for the entire country and even a large portion of the world are produced. The movement towards industrial centers has been so rapid that farmers are wondering how they will save this year's crops. Hundreds of acres of land in the most fertile and productive sections of the country are reported idle because of the inability of the owners to find men to tend it. In other sections farm owners planted larger fields than they can properly cultivate and this will result in smaller yields.

America's industries must progress and advance, but it is just as important that America's farms be tended well. We are slightly out of gear in this respect and one of the big problems of the next few years is to bring about an adjustment that will insure an adequate food supply.

The name of Mr. Stanley A. Switzer, a member of Seymour Post, American Legion, will be presented before the Indiana Legion convention for state treasurer. Friends of Mr. Switzer are anxious that he be elected to this position of trust, honor and responsibility and are working diligently in his behalf. His experience in the bank in which he is employed would prove valuable to him as Legion treasurer. His qualifications are all that could be desired for the position. Thus far Mr. Switzer has no opposition for the position and his Seymour friends will anxiously await the action of the state convention.

When Mr. Palmer's name is placed in nomination before the Democratic national convention someone might explain why he has not instituted proceedings against the principal sugar profiteers of the country.

The business of dealing in liquor in violation of the prohibition law is proving dangerous.

MINING SHAFTS ABANDONED

Untouched Source of Wealth Found in Lawrence and Adjoining Counties.

Rich deposits of kaolin—a basic clay used in the manufacture of alum cake, potteries and refractories—lie beneath the soils of southwestern Indiana, forming an almost untouched source of mineral wealth, according to geologists who recently made an investigation of the deposits, under the direction of W. W. Logan, state geologist, and head of the department of geology at Indiana University.

The value of the deposits is not known, but the report of the geologists has created a new interest in the long-abandoned kaolin mining shafts in several southern Indiana counties, particularly in Martin and Lawrence counties, and their extraordinary purity has been regarded as a phenomenon.

The deposits of kaolin in southern Indiana has long attracted the attention of scientists, and their extraordinary purity has been regarded as a phenomenon. "The attention of the manufacturer has not been called very frequently to the commercial possibilities of kaolin," said Dr. Logan. "Since the discovery in 1874 of a thick bed of kaolin on the property owned by Dr. Joseph Gardner, in Lawrence county, the kaolin from this deposit has been used only intermittently."

"In the autumn of 1916, I began investigations with a view to determining the origin and extending the utilization of the mineral. One line of investigation led to the testing of trial mixtures for the possible manufacture of refractory furnaces. "Following the entrance of the United States in the world war, the demand for kaolin suitable for the manufacture of glass pots, white ware and refractories, and for the purposes connected with chemical warfare, became very insistent, for the reason that the European supplies were no longer available because of transportation difficulties."

GOSHEN, IND.—"It is now about fifteen years since I had a wonderful cure of my stomach and blood condition with Doctor Pierce's Medical Discovery. At that time I was down and out. I had coughed night and day for a whole year, and lost so much flesh I began to look like a walking skeleton. The 'Discovery' made me feel new strength and vitality right from the start, and in a year's time I was just as strong and hardy as ever, and have never suffered with such a cough since."—MRS. SEYMOUR, INDIANA

On a request, I obtained and shipped some Indiana kaolin to several ordnance laboratories and to the bureau of standards. Shipments of many cars of kaolin were made from the Gardner mines. This clay also was used in St. Louis in the manufacture of a refractory material called "malinite."

The kaolin of southern Indiana was first mentioned in the geological literature of Leo Lesquereux, who published the pamphlet, "Geological Reconnaissance of Indiana," in 1862. Lesquereux described it as "a very soft, ochreous clay, which has resulted from the burning out of a bed of coal." E. T. Cox, who published the Sixth Annual Geological report of Indiana in 1874, gave the mineral the name of "Indianite."

Dr. Logan sees in the kaolin deposits the basis for the building of a new industry in Indiana. There is no reason, he says, why suitable manufacturing should not profit by the long neglected deposits of southern Indiana.

"The kaolin of Lawrence and adjoining counties is suitable for use in a number of industries, in some of which its value is already well established," he says. "Its utilization in quantity has been in the ceramic industry in the manufacture of aluminum sulphate. The kaolin in Lawrence county has been used for many years in the manufacture of this mineral, but cryolite supplanted it, and was in turn supplanted by bauxite. Economy in production seems to have been the influencing factor in this substitution."

"There are other economic uses for the clay, however. Aluminum sulphate is readily soluble in dilute sulphuric acid, and is said to be superior to other aluminum silicates for this purpose. Large quantities of alum cake are now used to produce flocculation of clay particles in water intended for domestic use. With an abundance of pyrite for the manufacture of sulphuric acid, there is no reason why alum cake should not be manufactured with profit in this state."

Regarding the use of aluminum sulphate in removing clay particles from water, Dr. Logan said that some municipal water works in Indiana are buying crude aluminum sulphate at $45 a ton, and that, making an allowance for the difference in active materials, the alum cake prepared from kaolin should sell for not less than $25 a ton. The margin of profit thus shown, he said, should be an excellent inducement for its manufacture.

The purer varieties of the clay

best features from all of them. Special attention will be given to the Methodist church at Marion, O., which is said to be very similar to the structure that is proposed by the local congregation. This building is only a few years old and was constructed in keeping with the community center idea. The Trinity congregation expects to construct its new home of worship along these lines.

The pastor was authorized to appoint two members to assist in the preliminary work. George A. Winkenhof and Charles A. Hemmer were named. They will appoint the finance and building committees which will work out the details of the project in the near future.

The new church is insured through the very liberal offer of one member of the congregation to contribute dollar for dollar that is given by all other members. This makes possible the completion of the plans of the congregation and the erection of a building that will meet the present and future requirements.

The church has a membership of 275 members representing about seventy-five families. The decision of the congregation to erect a new home is the result of growing sentiment and the knowledge that the

Wm. G. McAdoo: Relegated by his withdrawal from the race to the position of an unwilling "compromise candidate." Previously was conceded first place initial strength. One of his greatest assets, was his supposed hold on the labor vote.

Training Little Children

By Julia Wade Abbot.

Suggestions by mothers who have been kindergartners. Issued by the United States Bureau of Education, Washington, D. C., and the National Kindergarten Association, 2 West Fortieth Street, New York.

I have tested the appreciation of groups of kindergarten children by taking them to an art store, and having placed before them on a large easel, picture after picture, without comment. One lovely landscape had bright blue sky, floating white clouds, green grass with red poppies scattered here and there, and the atmosphere of summer prevailing it all. When this picture was put in the easel, one little girl said nothing but threw her arms wide in a gesture of abandonment more significant than any words could have been.

"We're made so we love." "First, when we see them painted, things we have passed."

"Perhaps a hundred times, nor cared to see."

This is what happened to Archie. In the kindergarten, Jessie Wilcox Smith's picture of "Twinkle, twinkle Little Star" had been placed low on the bulletin board and the children had talked about it and learned the song. The next morning Archie, a typical little street Arab, said in a gruff little voice, "Last night my father gave me a penny, and I went to the corner to 'get' a paper and a bunch of stars followed me over and the same bunch followed me back!"

Virginia was taken on Sunday afternoon by her father to the Metropolitan Museum of Art, and when she came to the gallery where the Knauts Madonna hangs she ran from her father and stood in front of the picture. Then, unconscious of the people about her, she began to sing the Christmas Hymn learned in the kindergarten:

"Once a little baby lay,
"Cradled on the fragrant hay,
"Long ago on Christmas."

In addition to the framed pictures on the wall there should be a place in the child's room—as there is in the kindergarten room—where small pictures may be placed and changed from month to month with the child's changing interests. Do you remember how tired Penrod became of the four lithographs on the schoolroom walls of Longfellow, Lowell, Holmes, and Whitier? Day after day, month after month those four portraits shed their benign glances upon the children, until Penrod grew so tired of their unchanging benevolence that he could never read those authors afterwards without a feeling of personal resentment.

The modern school is probably spending more thought on the pictures placed upon its walls than the modern parent is upon the pictures in the child's own room. Too much money is spent on flimsy toys which are not lasting, and too little money on books and pictures.

But there are many charming pictures which may be had for a song, those that appear on magazine covers for example. These pictures follow the changing seasons and the holidays with all their delights. There are pictures of Jack-o-Lanterns at Halloween, bunnies at Easter and Santa Claus appears on the Christmas covers. Haven't you yourself felt the thrill of Christmas when you have seen the face of the jolly Saint repeated many times in a newspaper booth?

In the autumn there are pictures of the squirrel storing his nuts; in the winter, jolly children coasting down hill, a little maiden buying a bright pot of tulips in the spring! and children rollicking in the surf in the summer time.

If these pretty pictures are placed in the child's room on a burlap screen or on a framed oblong of cork board, the little child will unconsciously begin to find companions in pictures, which is the first step in art appreciation.

All the art lectures in the world may not help children to love art, but when they live with pictures which are related to their joy in life they will take a delight in art which will lead their steps to the museum when they are older.

It is not only important that our children shall be educated so that they may make a living but that they shall be taught how to use their leisure. Books and pictures and music are all about us, but having eyes we see not, ears we hear not.

It is not enough that children be taught how to read but we must develop in them a hunger for good books and then they will find their way to the public library. What good are libraries and museums that are "open to the public," if the public never enters the open door. The baby's picture book is the beginning. Let us help to make America an art-loving Nation and begin now with "Young America."

A. Send stamped addressed envelope for recipe.

Q. What degree do the initials S. T. D. stand for?

Q. Someone told me that men smoke in church, in England. Is it true?

A. Not now, but it was quite the thing in the good old days. In England, prior to 1603, it was commonly practiced. In Wales the custom endured to a much later date and was not given up until 1850. The announcement of the text by the minister was the signal to light up. It is said that Bishop Burnet cut a hole in his hat to support his pipe.

Household Hints

Washing powders should be avoided in washing linens, as they tend to wear them out quickly.

If your furniture has grown dull, rub it with a flannel dipped in equal parts of turpentine and kerosene.

Toothache can be greatly relieved by bathing the gums and cavity with vinegar, as hot as can be borne.

If the top crust of pies and tarts are brushed with a little cold milk it will give them a nice brown crust.

When the new clothesline is boiled before using, it will be found to last longer because of this toughening process.

A wash boiler will not rust if after drying it thoroughly it is wiped out with a cloth saturated with kerosene.

If soap is kept on a shelf for some time before using, it will last twice as long as ordinarily. If cut in two pieces, the inside portions have a better opportunity to dry.

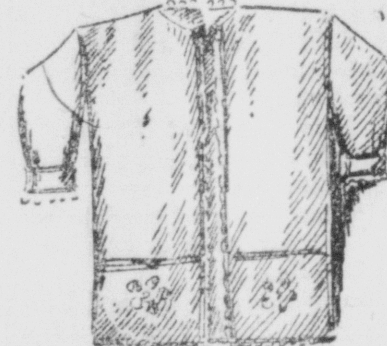

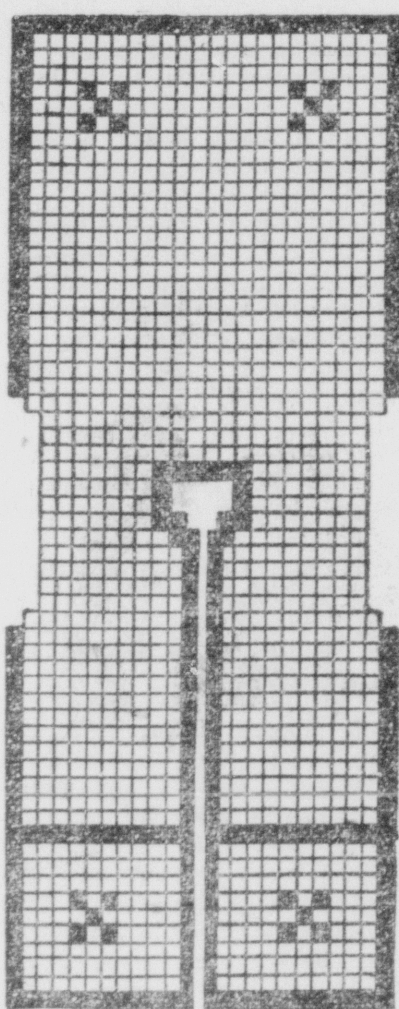

A white woolen sweater may be kept from shrinking if washed in lukewarm water into which a heaping tablespoon of saleratus has been mixed. The rinse water should also contain saleratus.

This dainty design is excellent on undergarments of white nainsook and is applicable in most any desired position.

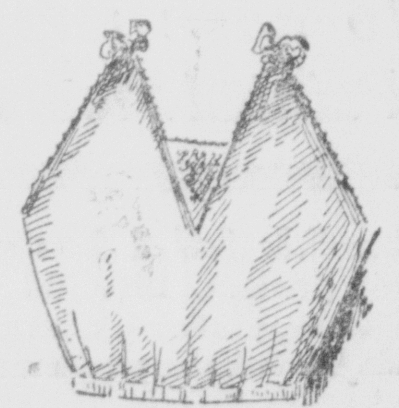

Baby's Crocheted Filet Sweater.

Three fold Saxony yarn and crochet hook No. 2½ are used. Begin at the lower edge of the back, chain 78 D. C. in fourth stitch and remaining 74 stitches. Follow block pattern to the neck, then to one side and to the lower edge of one front. Make the second side and front. Sew underarm seams. Crochet in open meshes around the armhole until sleeve is long enough. Make one row solid blocks, one row open mesh and last row solid block. If sleeve is not large enough around increase the number of blocks at the beginning of sleeve. Run ribbon through the first row of open mesh and tie around wrist. Finish all edges with a crocheted scallop. Tie at neck with ribbon. Place tiny ribbon posettes on the center of each motif. This is for a tiny tot.

FOR THE CAMISOLE

For the camisole which is pointed and ties on the shoulder the V insert for center front and back is nice. After placing the insert the edges are finished with two rows of open meshes and then single crochets and picot edge. Crochet cotton No. 80 to 100 is used.

The home dressmaker often has difficulty in cutting messaline silk, or other sleazy materials. A good plan is to lay cloth between two pieces of tissue paper and cut through at once, which will insure a clean cut without pulling or fraying.

To keep lemons from drying out or moulding, put on a saucer and cover with a tumbler. If only half the lemon is used at a time, set the unused half on the cut side and put tumbler over it. It will keep for several days.

We Do "Printing" That Pleases"

THE REASON WHY

From the "Book of Wonders" copyrighted and published by the Bureau of Industrial Education, Washington, D. C.

What Was the Origin and Meaning of Bread?

Bread is baked from many substances, although when we think of bread we usually think of wheat bread. It is sometimes made from roots, fruits and the bark of trees, but generally only from grains such as wheat, rye, corn, etc. The word bread comes from an old word bray, meaning to pound. This came from the method used in preparing the food. Food which was pounded was said to be brayed, and later this spelling was changed to bread. Properly speaking, however, these brayed or ground materials are not really bread in our sense of using the term until they are moistened with water, when it becomes dough. The word dough is an old one, meaning to "moisten." This dough was in olden times immediately baked in hot ashes, and a hard indigestible lump of bread was the result. Accidentally it was discovered that if the dough was left for some time before baking, allowing it to ferment, it would, when mixed with more dough, swell up and become porous. Thus we got our word loaf from an old word lifan, which meant to raise up or to lift up.

Why Do Birds Sing?

The song of the birds is a part of the love-making. The male bird is the "singer" as we call them at home, when we think of the canary in the cage near us. The male bird sings to his mate to charm her and to further his wooing. This wooing goes on after the eggs have been laid in the nest and while the mother bird is keeping them warm until they hatch out, but almost instantaneously with the birth of the little birds the song of the male bird is hushed. Take the case of the nightingale. For weeks during the period of nestbuilding and hatching he charms his mate and us with the beautiful music of his love song. But as soon as the little nightingales come from the eggs the sounds which the male nightingale makes are changed to a guttural croak, which is expressive of anxiety and alarm, in great contrast to the song notes of his wooing. And yet, if you were at this period—just after the birds are born and when his song changes—to destroy the nest and contents, you would at once find Mr. Nightingale return to his beautiful song of love to inspire his mate and start all over again to raise a family.

How Do They Find the Old Home?

The return of the birds to their old homes and how they find their way back to the same spot every year, to do which they must sometimes travel thousands of miles, is one of the most marvelous things in nature and has not as yet been satisfactorily determined. The nearest approach we have to a satisfactory answer to this is that birds do have a memory, that they can and do recognize familiar objects, and that their love for the old home causes them to fly to the north until they recognize the landmarks of their former habitation. In this it is said that the older birds—those who have gone that way before—lead the flocks and show the way.

There is no doubt that birds have a more perfect instinct of direction than man. They can follow a line of longitude almost perfectly, i. e., they can pick out the shorter route by instinct, and this is, of course, a straight line. They keep on going until they come to the familiar place they call home, and then they stop and build their nests. That it is not memory and sight of places alone that guides the birds is shown by the fact that some birds when migrating fly all night, when there is no light by which to recognize familiar objects.

Why the Birds Come Back in Spring?

The birds, however, have no charts or compasses to guide them. We do not know as yet absolutely what it is that enables the bird to find its way back and forth to the same spot year after year. As nearly as we have been able to ascertain, the birds after they mate and build their first nest and bring up their first family develop a fondness for that particular spot which is much the same as the instinct in man which we call the "homing instinct." Man becomes attached to one particular spot which he calls home and where ever he is thereafter, he is very likely to think of the old locality when he thinks of home, and there are very few of us but have yearnings to go back to the old "home locality" every now and then. The environment in which a bird or human being is brought up generally becomes to a greater or less extent a permanent part of home in this sense.

Why Don't the Birds Stay South?

The result of all this is that the south-land is crowded with birds of all kinds and the food supply is enough for all. But soon in following the laws of nature in birds, as in other living things, comes the time for breeding. The south-land is warm enough for nesting and hatching, but it is so crowded that there wouldn't be enough food for all the old birds and the little ones too, and so the birds begin to scatter again. Just think of what would happen in the south-land if all the birds that stay there in the winter built their nests there and brought up a new family. A bird family will average four young birds, so that if all the bird families were born and raised in the south the bird population would quickly multiply itself by three and there would be the same old necessity of traveling away to look for food. To avoid this the birds begin to scatter to their old homes before the breeding season begins.

Why Do Birds Go South in Winter?

We know why birds go south in the winter. The necessity of finding food to live upon has everything to do with that. As food grows scarce towards the end of summer in the farthest northern places where birds live, the birds there must find food elsewhere. They naturally turn south and when they find food, they have to divide with the birds living there. The result is that soon the food becomes scarce again and both the newcomers, and the old residents, so to speak are forced to seek places where food is plentiful. So both of these flocks, to use a short term, fly away to the south until they find food again and encounter a third flock or group of the bird family crowding the locality and exhausting the food supply. So in turn each flock presses for food upon the one in the locality next further to the south until we have a general movement to the south of practically all the birds until they reach a point where the food supply is sufficient for all the time being.

How Do Birds Find Their Way?

The most interesting phase of the movement of animals from place to place is found in the flight of birds during the spring and fall. In the spring the birds come north and in the fall they go south. This is called "migration" and the reason given for the ability of some birds to come back every year to build a nest in the same tree is usually attributed to the "instinct of migration," and yet that is more a statement of fact rather than an explanation of the wonderful ability of the birds to do this.

Why Does Oiling the Axle Make the Wheel Turn More Easily?

If you look at what appears to be a perfectly smooth axle on a bicycle or motor car through a powerful magnifying glass, you will find that the surface of the axle is not smooth at all, as you may have thought, but covered with what appears to be quite large bumps or irregularities in the surface. If you were to examine the inside of the hub of the wheel in the same way, you would find that it also is like that. Now, when you attempt to turn a wheel on the axle without oil, these little irregularities or bumps grind against each other, producing what we call friction. As friction develops heat, the metal of the axle and hub expand and the wheel gets stuck.

Will Wheat Grow Wild?

This is a question that has puzzled the world's scientists for more than two thousand years. From time to time it has been reported by investigators in various parts of the world that here and there wheat has been found growing wild and doing well, but every time a further investigation is made, it develops that the wheat has been cultivated by some one. There is as yet no evidence for believing that wheat will grow in a wild state.

When Was Wheat First Used in Making Bread?

It is not clearly known when or by whom wheat was discovered, but it seems to have been known from the earliest times. It is mentioned in the Bible, and can be traced to ancient Egypt, and there are records showing that the Chinese cultivated wheat as early as 2700 B. C. Today it supplies the principal article for making bread to all civilized nations of the world.

The origin of the wheat plant is said to have been a kind of grass which is given a Latin name Aegilops ovata by the botanists.

CHAPTER V.

Early Birds.

At sunrise Clinton was awakened by the dazzling rays that streamed in at his open window.

He hastened to where he had left his clothes. They were arranged in a different manner from that in which he left them—they had an odd look—the suit was not his own. Though not unlike in color, the pattern and texture were dissimilar. On the dresser lay all the articles that had been in his suit except the handkerchiefs. Fresh liner and underwear were laid out in the place of what he had worn. His shoes set where he had left them, but they had been carefully polished. It was easy to divine that while he slept someone had come into the room through the rear door or the passage that led to the bathroom.

Accustomed to hotels, he glanced along the walls in search of a bell push button. On the side near the rear was a round contrivance. He went over and recognized it as the mouthpiece of an old-fashioned speaking tube. He stooped to it and called irritably: "Hello, hello. Is this the kitchen? Hello—"

"Yes, yes, I'm here, Mr. Will," came back the voice of old Tillie. "My! but it does sound natural to hear you gassing me up—"

"It's my clothes," broke in Clinton.

"I want my suit."

"Suit?" was the astonished reply.

"Why, I laid out the very best everyday one you left."

"No, no. I mean my own suit; the one I wore last evening."

"That? But you can't have it until I get the pants pressed and the coat cleaned. There's a grease spot 'most as big as—"

Clinton slammed down the cover of the mouthpiece and returned to glower at the changeling suit. But he did not long remain inactive. Up through the open window floated a clear, sweet hint: "O-ho-o! O-ho-o, laybones! Aren't you coming down?"

He leaped into the fresh costume and dashed to the bathroom without stopping to examine the fit of the garments. That he was able to get into them at all was sufficient to satisfy him for the time being. With hair half brushed he hurried out into the hall, fastening his tie.

"You are?" she incredulously questioned. "Well, if you mean it—"

"How could I help it when you called me?" he asked.

"But I know how much you like to be abed. If it wasn't for these dirty the Mikado, you make the punishment fit the crime."

"Meenie!" she pouted. "You wouldn't say that if Ellen offered to hug you."

"How do you know? Anyway, I mean precisely—"

He stopped short and pointed at the spots on her big apron where she had knelt in the damp soil. "You've been working hard."

"The early bird has been catching the worm. . . . Those nasty cutworms!" she complained. "I catch them and give them to Teddy Jones for his fishing. Poor things! It's too bad they have to be such a nuisance. Come and see the roses."

To avoid bruising the flowers that dropped or thrust out over the path on either side he had to walk behind her. She danced ahead of him, rapturously calling his attention to her especial favorites among the blossoms. He agreed with all her praises, evidently willing to accept her judgment, since he never shifted his gaze away from her dainty head and graceful, girlish form. She had on a crisp gingham dress, and her abundant hair hung down her straight little back in a thick braid. There was excuse for even a brother to consider her adorable, particularly a brother who could not realize that she was his sister.

She glanced about and caught his rapt expression. "Oh, Will, what is it?" she asked. "You look so—so—as if you've been moonstruck!"

"I am trying to compose a poem," he said. "How is this?"

"The Princess of Posies, Amidst her bright roses, Alas! me supposes Her brother to be!"

"No wonder you look daft, if that is the way you feel," she remarked. "Maybe so much beauty on an empty stomach has upset you."

"It is not the lack of breakfast," he asserted.

"Well, then— Oh! there's Ellen coming out of the pergola."

He colored and looked toward Ellen, who was eagerly approaching. As he caught her gaze his flush deepened. "We're waiting for you, dear," said Amy.

"Really?" breathlessly murmured Ellen.

Amy tugged at Clinton's arm.

"Don't be a dummy. Speak to her."

He bowed hastily to the other girl in a futile attempt to avoid her tender gaze. "Pardon me, Miss Kirkland. I—"

"Miss Kirkland!—the idea!"—admonished Amy, and she sang meaningly:

"The maiden's standing by, sir; 'Tis yours to do or die, sir."

"Amy!" murmured the stately Miss Kirkland, her cheeks scarlet with blissful shame.

"My lord, your fiancée waits," announced the little tense.

Clinton drew back, stiff with embarrassment. "Miss—Lowrie," he replied, "you and Miss Kirkland alike forget that I am not—"

"Please, please, Will!" broke in Ellen. "Do not say that—do not!"

"He only means not himself," suggested Amy. She smiled at the young man hopefully. "Perhaps you might remember, if you made believe. Don't mind me. I'll turn my back."

The young man gave over the unequal contest. "Have it your own way, if you must; only please remember and spare me when Doctor Kirkland receives the answering telegram with regard to Mr. Lowrie."

"When you know and must believe that you are you!" sighed Ellen.

"But we won't starve you while you wait," added Amy. "Come in to breakfast. I smell bacon!"

APPROACH OF JULY 4 EVIDENCED BY DISPLAYS

Fire Crackers Are Already Being Purchased by Youngsters—Ordinance Governs Size.

The approach of Independence Day which will be legally observed this year on July 5 is evidenced by the displays in local business houses. A number of dealers have already placed fire crackers and fire works on exhibition and many small boys are unable to wait until July 5 to use them. The sharp explosions of fire crackers have been heard in various parts of the city for several days.

City officials call attention to the fact that an ordinance limits the size of fire crackers that may be sold in Seymour. Most of the merchants who deal in explosives are familiar with the requirements and no trouble has been experienced in the past in enforcing the ordinance. Because of the celebration here July 5 under the auspices of the American Legion it is expected that the demand for flags and bunting for purposes of decoration will be unusually heavy.

FEDERAL AGENTS SWOOP DOWN ON SOUTH BEND

State Also Represented in System- atic Cleanup of City—Liquor is Seized.

By United Press.
South Bend, Ind., June 24.—Working under the personal supervision of Charles J. Orison, commissioner for Indiana, five prohibition inspectors with thirty-eight federal agents swept down on South Bend today and began a systematic cleanup of the city with the view of putting an end to the illicit sale of liquor and trafficking in narcotics for which South Bend has gained wide notoriety in the last two years. The state of Indiana is represented in the raid by William Gimbell, assistant attorney general who was directed by Elie Stansbury, attorney general, to come to South Bend to aid in the prosecutions. He was stationed at the county jail to receive booties.

The federal men slipped into the city without knowledge of the police and before their presence had become known to local authorities many arrests had been made. The federal agents took charge of telephone and telegraph company wires so as to detect any attempt to give warning to places to be raided.

Ten places have been raided. Anywhere from one to five gallons of whiskey were found in each one of the places. Automobiles were pressed into service by federal men in bringing their prisoners to the county jail. Assistant Attorney General Gimbell said the raids were pre-arranged and that warrants had been issued for thirty places, most of which were located in the heart of the city.

Last night a number of his friends engaged the prancing steed and chariot which is owned by Eudarius Lewis, colored, and notified Mr. Droege that his time would be required for a portion of the evening. Mr. Droege was given a place of honor in the vehicle and with a crowd of young men and boys following the conveyance was driven over the city. At the corner of Second and Chestnut streets he was called upon for an address and for five minutes he held his audience spellbound with eloquence. The party then accompanied Mr. Droege to the Majestic Theater where he was introduced by William Topie. The audience and retirement of the par-

F. H. DOHANY CHARGED WITH MURDER OF AUGUST DWYER

Detroit Lawyer and Banker Remains Under Influence of "Moonshine Booze."

By United Press.
Detroit, Mich., June 24.—Frank H. Dohany, lawyer and banker, formally charged with murder in connection with the death of August Dwyer, traveling auditor of the United Mine Workers, will not be questioned by authorities until he recovers his faculties, it was announced today.

Dohany, suffering presumably from the effects of "moonshine booze" which he drank with Dwyer, before the murder, still lay in a stupor at the receiving hospital under police guard today.

Attorney General Alex J. Groesbeck will probably handle the prosecution of the case, it was indicated today. Prosecutor Bishop was a member of the party which gathered in the Dwyer law offices early on the evening of the crime. He will be called as a witness it was said.

The inquest will probably not be held until next week.

LEGISLATURE WILL NOT CONVENE NEXT MONDAY

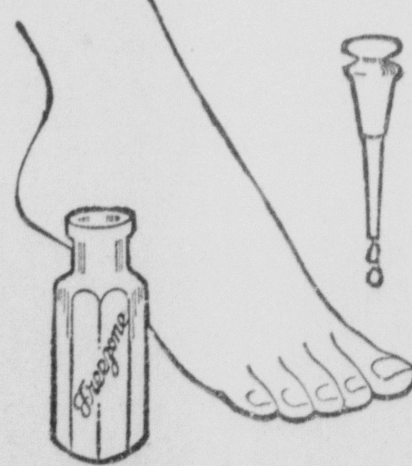

Delay Said to be Due to Difficulty in Getting Appropriation Bills in Shape.

By United Press.
Indianapolis, June 24.—Governor Goodrich will not convene the proposed special session of the legislature next Monday as had been the general supposition with those in close touch with the Governor. The Governor refused to see newspaper men today. It was generally understood that the delay in issuing the call is occasioned by difficulty in whipping the appropriation bills into shape. These bills will appropriate more than $300,000 to maintain the state institutions the remainder of this year and also to authorize expenditures of $230,000 from the general fund in behalf of the institutions.

That the assembly will not convene later than next week however, was the word going around at the state house today.

Facts for Sick Women

Reliable Information

All American women know of the great success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in restoring to health women who suffered from ailments peculiar to their sex, yet there are some who are skeptical and do not realize that all that is claimed for it is absolutely true—if they did, our laboratory would not be half large enough to supply the demand, though today it is the largest in the country used for the manufacture of one particular medicine.

The facts contained in the following two letters should prove of benefit to many women:

Buffalo, N. Y.—"I suffered with organic inflammation and displacement. When lifting I had such pain and bearing down that I was not able to stand up, and it hurt me to walk or go up or down stairs. I was going to a doctor without any results and he said the safest thing would be to have an operation. I met a lady who told me she had three operations and was not well until she took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I felt relief after taking two bottles of Vegetable Compound and I kept on with it until I was cured. I always use Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills and they are fine. Everything used to turn sour on my stomach and the Liver Pills relieved that."—Mrs. A. Rowan, 235 Fargo Avenue, Buffalo, N. Y.

Sacramento, Calif.—"I had organic trouble and had such terrible pain and swelling in the lower part of my side that I could not stand on my feet or even let the bed clothes touch my side. I gave up my work thinking I would not be able to go back for months. My mother advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as it had saved her life at one time, and it put me in a wonderful condition in a couple of weeks, so I can keep on working. I work in a department store and have to stand on my feet all day and I do not have any more pains. I surely recommend your Vegetable Compound to all my friends and you may use these facts as a testimonial."—Bertha J. Parker, 3220 M St., Sacramento, Calif.

The Virginia senator who is an unwilling candidate himself by reason of the instructions to the Virginia delegation to vote for him gave the impression to interviewers that he is strongly for McAdoo. Whether in this he reflects the president's view could not be learned. Glass does not regard McAdoo out of the race, merely because he has withdrawn his name.

When the Palmer forces were claiming McAdoo's strength, Glass made this more or less cryptic remark:
